Our fairy tale is a journey on the small wagon of fantasy towards our destination, Book-land. A beautiful and attractive country full of surprises. In every book corner a book birth. Children big and small, read, jot down, write, think, and learn. Cheerful children, with a smile on their faces, play and enjoy life with their friends. Further down, a short distance, there is another place that is dark, cloudy, and silent. They call it, Computer-land. All eyes are glued on screens. Flashing images come and go. Lifeless children are immersed for hours on end in the adventures of video games, with their backs turned to the lively company. There is sadness everywhere. But here comes young and restless Nestor, who longs to go back to Book-land. He wants to lay his hands on a book once again, to read it, to learn from it, to get information and knowledge and to rise with the wings of imagination to the heavens of happiness.
